

Dr. Chris Hinnant

School of Information

My Research Background:

- Associate Professor, School of Information, College of Communication & Information
- Ph.D. in Public Administration (Maxwell School, Syracuse U.)
- My background is as a social scientist who examines the adoption of ICT and its socio-technical impacts on groups, organizations and institutions.

General Research Areas:

- Adoption of ICT in Public Sector Organizations
- Organizational Management of Innovation and Change
- Government Information Policy
- Information Use and Management by Science Teams

Activities in the Digital Government Field:

- Associate Editor of Government Information Quarterly
- Co-Program Chair of the Annual International Conference on Digital Government Research (dg.o 2017 and dg.o 2018)

Current Research Activities:

- Currently initiating projects to examine adoption of ICT by courts and justice institutions (with collaborators at Syracuse U.)
- Initiating work to compare the development and adoption of e-government (i.e. e-participation) with collaborators in Hong Kong.

Note: I am away from FSU while on sabbatical until June 2018. I am happy to Skype if my input is requested.