COVID-19: Back to Campus (Fall 2020):

Complimentary CITI Course

General Information:

- FSU is providing a course to train research faculty and team members, research staff, students and others at research organizations and medical schools on COVID-19 safety as they return to campus.
- Access to this course is for FSU staff, students and faculty only. For other non-FSU individuals, a decision maker at your own organization should seek direct access to the course by filling out the forms (https://form.jotform.com/citiprogram/covid-19-back-to-campus-request).
- You must complete this course by midnight September 30, 2020 (this complimentary course is scheduled to close October 1, 2020).
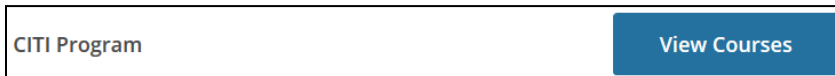

Instructions:

1. You must have a CITI Program account to access the course. CITI FSU provides FSU staff, students and faculty with free CITI Program account access, but you must register in order to obtain account access. If you do not have a CITI Program account please follow these instructions to register: https://support.citiprogram.org/s/article/updated-guide-to-getting-started

2. Here is how your current and newly registered learners can access the course:
   a. Visit www.citiprogram.org and log into your account.

   b. Click on "View Courses" next to your institution's name from your Main Menu page.

   c. Click on "Add a course" below the Learner Tools section.

   d. Locate the "COVID-19: Back to Campus (Fall 2020)" course (location may vary per your institutions curriculum questions).

Follow these steps to retrieve your Completion Record after you have completed the course: https://support.citiprogram.org/s/article/how-do-i-access-my-completion-certificate-2019-10-24-17-54-24. This course is not required in order to conduct human research. If you have any questions about this course, contact humansubjects@fsu.edu.